Busy start to the new year

By Dr. Steven Heil
Principal

The school year started off with a lot of action. Students are busy with coursework, and activities and athletics are going strong.

This year we have switched the musical and play. We will have the musical in the fall. The upcoming show is "Elf." We are looking forward to the musical as a lead-in toward the holiday season.

School safety

School safety has always been a priority at Delano, and we have decided to standardize more of what we do. We are also training our students and staff in new procedures that will aide them anywhere they are in the world.

One piece of information I found in the parent survey was that our parents and community wanted more information about what we do for school safety. I will be providing school safety nights this fall so that parents and community members can hear about what we have planned for emergencies.

Please look for the school safety night dates in the article on Page 4.

Almquist, Rodriguez earn honors

Pair named Commended Students in National Merit program

By Paul Downer

Communications Coordinator

Two Delano High School seniors have been named Commended Students in the National Merit Scholarship Program.

Jennifer Almquist and Chloe Rodriguez earned the honor by scoring among the top 3 percent of more than 1.5 million students nationally who entered the 2020 competition by taking the 2018 Preliminary SAT/National Merit Scholarship Qualifying Test.

"Those being named Commended Students have demonstrated outstanding potential for academic success," said a statement from the National Merit Scholarship Corporation. "These students represent a valuable national resource; recognizing their accomplishments, as well as the key role their schools play in their academic development, is vital to the advancement of educational excellence in our nation."

Dr. Steve Heil, principal of Delano High School, said Commended Students are recognized by colleges and companies across the world, and many offer scholarships or incentives to those students.

"Both students should be very proud of their accomplishment," Heil said. "It shows a level of high achievement after years of hard work."

While in rare company, Commended Students do not continue in the competition for National Merit scholarships, as semifinalists do.

Jennifer Almquist

Almquist is no stranger to academic success, having earned the Yale Book Award as the top member of her junior class last spring. Still, she said that while she knew her PSAT score was in the range for recognition, the actual announcement came as a surprise.

"It's very exciting," she said.

Jennifer Almquist, left, and Chloe Rodriguez scored among the top 3 percent of students nationally on the PSAT exam.

"I was not expecting it at all when I got called down to the office."

Almquist said her favorite subject in school is math, though she has thoroughly enjoyed psychology so far this year. Teachers who have been particularly influential to her at Delano High School include Jerry Shouts and Karen Hohenstein.

The main ingredients to her success, Almquist said, were hard work and time management.

"Senior year is just as busy as junior year," she said. "There's no time for senior slack. I started out strong at the beginning of the school year and just want to keep it going. I don't want to slow down or give up, because when I get into college I'm not going to want to let my grades drop."

Almquist has not yet decided on a college, but is planning to apply to a handful of liberal arts schools in the Midwest.

Aside from school work, Almquist serves as the treasurer for National Honor Society, competes on the Math Team and dances competitively with the Star Seekers program.

Almquist is the daughter of Ken and Rhonda Almquist of Delano.

Chloe Rodriguez

Rodriguez, who is a post-secondary student at Bethel University in St. Paul this year, learned that she had been named a Commended Student through a phone call from her mother.

"At first I didn't believe her," Rodriguez said. "I thought she had just read it wrong, but she confirmed it, so then I was really proud of myself."

Rodriguez also was honored by the National Hispanic Recognition Program for scoring in approximately the top 1 percent of Hispanic students nationally.

Eventually, Rodriguez plans to pursue a doctorate in astrophysics, and physics and mathematics have been her favorite classes in school.

"I really like when you can solve an equation and it all works out nicely in the end. You get a straightforward answer," she said.

Like Almquist, Rodriguez named Shouts and Hohenstein as two teachers who made a difference for her at Delano High School.

"Mrs. Hohenstein was my chemistry teacher last year. I don't plan on studying chemistry, but her classes were really intellectual and I felt challenged in them," said Rodriguez.

While Rodriguez said her dream college is Yale, she may opt to stay on at Bethel, which has a strong physics program of its own. She said the key to her academic success has been managing homework assignments evenly over time so deadlines don't become insurmountable.

'It shows a level of achievement after years of hard work.'

What advice does she have for her fellow students?

"Study what interests you because you're going to be more motivated to learn," she said.

Aside from academics, Rodriguez ran cross country in Delano for seven years, and now plays rugby on a club team in Hopkins.

She is the daughter of Mario and Emilee Rodriguez of Delano.

DHS Homecoming

New DHS staff

New staff members at the high school this year include, front row from left, Breeze Bestland (language arts), Megan Hovick (special education) and Katie Larson (counselor). In the back row, from left, are Kaitlyn Krismer (math), Kaitlin Pear (special education), Melissa Baker (Spanish) and Carrie Wittenberg (physical education).

When to keep kids home from school

By Tina Prior
District Nurse

How do you decide when your child should stay home from school if they are not feeling well?

- As a general rule, if a child has a fever of or over 100 degrees F, is vomiting or has diarrhea, they should stay home for 24 hours after symptoms have resolved without the use of medication.

Tina Prior

- If a child has any rash that might be disease related or you don't know the cause, check with your primary physician before sending your child to school.

- If your child has started on antibiotics for any reason, keep them at home until they've had a full 24 hours of medication.

If your child is ill, please call their school daily to report illness.

If you have questions about these guidelines or you'd like more information on a specific illness, feel free to call your building nurse.

Other health tips

- Make soap and water, along with hand sanitizer, your new best flu-fighting friends, and use them often to wash your hands.

- Cover your mouth or raise your arm and sneeze into your sleeve or elbow.

- Don't give germs the chance to jump from place to place. Avoid touching your eyes, nose, and mouth when possible.

- It's harder for germs to infect a healthy body. Take care of yourself by eating healthy, getting enough sleep, and exercising regularly.

- Make sure to get a flu shot.

School Safety nights Oct. 14-15

Learn about school's security measures

By Dr. Steve Heil
Principal

School safety and security is a top priority for the staff at Delano High School.

Prior to and during our construction, the high school administration was working and is continuing to work with various outside agencies in order to ensure our safety and security procedures are up-to-date and applicable to the current atmosphere in the United States.

Delano High School is unique in that we are open from 5 a.m. until 10 p.m. most nights. We have many community members and families involved in school activities, who use our fitness facilities, and who celebrate the gifts and talents that our students showcase in their activities and athletics. This highlights the need to prioritize safety and security.

Information nights

I am inviting parents and community members to our School Safety and Security Nights, where you can learn about our safety and security measures and procedures.

This presentation has resulted from conversations with parents and community members, as well as survey data, indicating that individuals would like to know what we do as a school for safety and security.

Meetings will be held on two evenings:

- Monday, Oct. 14, at 5 and 7 p.m. in the PAC.

- Tuesday, Oct. 15, at 6 p.m. in the PAC.

I look forward to speaking with you about our processes.

two-schedule system to a one-schedule system. We are in the process of working with staff members right now and will reveal the new schedule later this school year once we work all the details out. Our goal is to provide a more robust system to help students achieve their academic best.

I look forward to this school year and seeing all the accomplishments of our students, both inside and outside of the classroom.

Friends from abroad

Speakers to address anxiety

Delano Elementary School will host a free speaking event featuring Rob Winker and Amy Lou Anderson of Playmore and Prosper from 6:30 to 7:15 p.m. on Tuesday, Nov. 5.

The speakers are sponsored by a grant from the United Way, and will deliver their message in the school cafeteria.

Parents, educators and community members who work with children and teens are encouraged to attend. Free childcare and CEUs will be available.

Defeating anxiety

It is very important to bring the body and mind together to heal anxiety.

Anxiety is prevalent among kids and teens, yet it is under identified, and under treated. It is vital to empower youth with strategies for coping with anxiety.

Play therapy and pediatric occupational therapy combine wonderfully to offer practical mind and body strategies for dealing with anxiety.

The presentation will offer several strategies parents, teachers and kids can immediately implement in their lives. The strategies will range from general regulation and calming practices to specific mind-body strategies for overcoming and defeating anxiety.

Winker has his master's degree in counseling psychology and is credentialed as a registered play therapist.

Anderson, OTR/L, is a pediatric occupational therapist.

Drive for vets returns

Delano Public Schools will conduct its annual clothing drive for veterans in need again this year.

The drive will begin on Monday, Oct. 21, and will end on Veterans Day, Monday, Nov. 11. All donated items must be newly purchased.

This year the Delano community will continue to support veterans who are hospitalized at the St. Cloud Veterans Affairs Hospital. In addition, proceeds will also support the Eagle's Healing Nest, located in Sauk Rapids and Anoka.

The St. Cloud VA Hospital supports hospitalized veterans, many of whom are homeless at admission. The veterans typically are hospitalized for 60 to 80 days. When they are well enough for discharge, the hospital staff works to ensure that their basic needs are met.

The mission of the Eagle's Healing Nest is to provide assistance with healing the invisible wounds of war. The Nest provides support for veterans struggling with Post Traumatic Stress Disorder; staff members work to address their immediate needs and then assist veterans with their transition back into the civilian world and their families.

Please consider donating the following items.

For men: Socks, boxers, undershirts, pajama pants, T-shirts, sweatpants or sweatshirts, jeans (waist 30-36, length 30-34), winter boots (size 9 -14), slippers and winter coats, hats and gloves.

For women: Socks, underwear, pajamas, shirts, sweatpants, jeans of any size, winter boots, hats and gloves, and slippers with rubber bottoms.

If you would like to make a monetary donation, collected funds will be used to purchase winter boots.

Make your check payable to Delano Public Schools, and note "veterans clothing drive" in the memo.

Four 'As' lead to student success

By Steven Schaubberger
Assistant Principal

Greetings, from Delano High School! It is wonderful to see our students, parents and staff back at school.

The building (brick, mortar and technology) is awesome, and so are our custodians and volunteers. But when you fill it with people working together as a team -- that is what makes it a school.

Keys to success

The key ingredient to maintaining success with our students is a balance of the four A's: academics, activities, attendance and attitude.

If we work hard at all of these, then we obtain the "fifth A," which is achievement.

Academics is job No. 1. We collaborate with families to help students succeed in both content knowledge and in obtaining life-long learning skills.

Attendance is more than just being here. It's defined as doing your best every day to make an impact and a difference.

Activities engage our students to demonstrate their leadership skills, along with refining and showcasing their talents.

A positive attitude is the required glue to hold everything else together. We teach our students that an "I can" attitude develops exponentially when we learn from our mistakes. Never waste the precious gifts of time and resources!

Traffic and parking

On a side note, it's been a wonderful start to parking at DHS! The lots have been repainted, more visitor parking is available and students are practicing safe driving habits.

Steven Schaubberger

Please be mindful of our students and staff as you drop off or pick up your student before or after school via the circle lanes. Please slow down and observe the crosswalks while using your signal lights to change lanes.

Wellness update

Finally, the DHS Student Wellness Committee is looking for students in grades 7-12 to serve with this important group that meets once per month.

Please encourage your child to join and make an impact in the areas of school nutrition, health education, and physical and mental well-being activities at our school. If you have any questions, please contact me at 763-972-3365, ext. 1703.

Thank you for being a partner in your student's total school experience. Together we are better!

Best Buddies program builds bridges

By Paul Downer
Communications Coordinator

A new program at Delano High School aims to build relationships among students with and without intellectual and developmental disabilities this year.

"We have a wonderful special ed. program in Delano, but these kids sometimes get left out when it comes to inviting them to football games or social events at the school," said Darlene Sundheim, a paraprofessional at Delano Elementary School who learned about the Best Buddies International organization last year and saw an opportunity to benefit students in Delano.

Sundheim worked with DES Principal Darren Schuler, his wife, Jennifer, and his son, Sam, to support the organization's presence in Minnesota last fall, and the plan is to start a chapter at DHS this year. DHS math teacher Lydia Wissink and special ed. teacher Julie Semeizer will oversee the group, which will be run by junior student Bridget Sundheim, Darlene's daughter, along with other student leaders.

Wissink and Bridget Sundheim attended a Best Buddies leadership conference at Indiana University this summer to lay the groundwork for Delano's chapter.

"I think it will take off," Bridget Sundheim said. "Delano already has such a good community when it comes to getting everybody involved."

Best Buddies

The Best Buddies organization originated with Eunice Kennedy Shriver in the 1960s, and like Special Olympics exists to break down barriers between those with and without disabilities. Students are paired up and get together for at least one group event and one unstructured event per month, and communicate with their buddy on a regular basis – at least once a week.

The Best Buddies group held its first get-together on Monday, Sept. 23. The evening in the Digital Commons included board games and popcorn.

"It's very similar to adapted basketball or adapted bowling, but this is focused on friendships and building relationships," said Wissink. "We'll do a lot of different activities. We'll maybe do a Halloween party, or decorate cookies, or go to a hockey game together. We'll all do things together, and then the buddies can go to a movie together or do different things that you would do with your friends anyway. You just do it with your buddy, and that way they can do something they might not normally be included in. It's all about becoming friends and realizing that all people have a right to explore, express and find their gifts and purpose."

'If you can be a friend, that's all there is to it.'

The Best Buddies organization is found in all 50 states and in 53 countries worldwide. Beyond high school, the organization also has programs for employment, leadership development and independent living.

"It teaches kids life skills so they can go out and be productive. So this is the first step to a long (opportunity) that Best Buddies offers all through the world," Darlene Sundheim said.

Getting started

While the vision has been cast, Bridget Sundheim and the assisting faculty are now in the recruiting stage to get the chapter established. Most importantly, students with and without disabilities need to sign up. Information was shared at the high school open house, and letters have been shared with families in the special education program. A first group event was held on Monday, Sept. 23.

"Basically, it is student-run," said Semeizer. "Lydia and I, once we get it off the ground, will step back and Bridget, along with some other student officers, will run it. We just oversee it. This is for any disability area and any level, from significant needs to maybe just a little bit of social need."

Over time, it's possible the Best Buddies program will flow down into the intermediate and elementary schools, but for now the focus will be on establishing the high school program. To accomplish that, Wissink and Semeizer said they are seeking community donations to help cover expenses for outings and transportation, along with chapter dues. Those dues give the local group a Best Buddies staff contact who provides materials and answers questions, provides access to a wealth of resources, and covers the cost of a student's attendance at a leadership event.

"We don't want to ask our students to do any fundraising individually. So we're going to do it all on our end and do it through sponsorships," said Wissink. "If anyone would like to donate, we would love it."

Even more important, in the short term, is developing enough participation from the student body to proceed. Those of all interests and abilities are welcome.

"We need students," said Bridget Sundheim. "For kids in NHS, this is a good way to get hours."

"The beautiful thing is that there is no requirement to be part of it," said Wissink. "If you can be a friend, that's all there is to it. You don't have to like basketball or have a certain grade point average. It's open to everybody. We just want people to be involved, to make friendships and be inclusive."

For more information, contact Wissink at lydia.wissink@delanoschools.org or Semeizer at julie.semeizer@delano-schools.org.

September Showcase

‘Aladdin Jr.’

About 40 students in grades five through eight performed ‘Disney’s Aladdin Jr.’ Sept. 5-7. Large crowds were reported for each of the three performances, and students, some of whom were participating in a school play for the first time, said they enjoyed the opportunity to bond with their classmates in a common effort. The production was directed by DIS sixth-grade teacher Natalie Palmer, who received help from a large number of high school drama students.

CEO students gain business mindset

While most high school students are thinking about classes and extracurriculars, CEO students are thinking about what it looks like to start and run their own personal businesses.

Two students from Delano High School are among the CEO participants this year. The program began in 2017 and is based at the Wright Technical Center in Buffalo.

The program is the first in a series of steps to help cultivate real life skills in students and to cultivate a community of skilled young business leaders.

CEO stands for Creating Entrepreneurial Opportunities. It is a year-long, experiential learning-based course, designed to utilize partnerships in the community and provide an overview of business processes and development.

Throughout the program year, students visit local businesses, learn from guest speakers, participate in operating a class business, write a business plan, and, from concept to reality, build their own legal, functioning entity.

Grappling with real-life challenges has proven to develop young people who are leaders and problem solvers, and the experience gives students a new perspective on the opportunity that their community holds.

The Midland Institute for Entrepreneurship and Wright Technical Center firmly believe that 21st century skills like problem-solving, teamwork, self-motivation, responsibility, higher-order thinking, communication and inquiry should be at the heart of each student's development throughout this program.

Want to get involved? CEO classes are open to the community. Visit WrightTechCEO.com to contact the facilitator.

Delano School Board Share feedback at listening sessions

Last year members of the Delano School Board began hosting periodic "listening sessions" to discuss matters of interest with district residents.

Listening sessions are not formal meetings, and open discussion about the evening's subjects is encouraged within pre-determined time limits. Members of the public are welcome to come and share comments, questions and suggestions.

Two or three board members, along with appropriate school staff, attend each session to share information and hear feedback. No official action is taken at the sessions, but feedback is shared with the entire board to inform members as they make decisions going forward.

The next listening session is scheduled for 7 p.m. on Monday, Oct. 21, in the DHS media center. Topics for the evening will be chosen after a poll is sent out in the weeks leading up to the session, and will be announced prior to the event via school email, and the district's website and social media channels (Facebook and Twitter).

Topics at three listening sessions last year included safety and security, campus traffic, facility access and fees, the literacy initiative and student assessments.

Sheridan Story covers food gaps

The Sheridan Story, a weekend food program, is once again available to DHS families this year. The non-profit's mission is to fight child hunger through community and school partnerships.

The organization strives to make a difference by focusing on food gaps -- the times when children aren't at school to access meal programs. The Sheridan Story offers food over the weekends, summers and extended school breaks.

The program is free for all families, and no qualifications are required for enrollment. No information is collected for enrollment, and privacy is protected for participating families. Those interested can sign up at any time during the school year, and school staff will discreetly place food bags in students' lockers on Fridays during the school year.

Families can choose from a variety of food bags that contain nutritious, non-perishable food, including fruits, vegetables, proteins, grains and soups or entrees.

For more information, see <https://www.thesheridanstory.org/>. A sign-up form is available at <http://bit.ly/SheridanDPS>.

Conferences set for Oct. 14

High school conferences will be held from 4 to 8 p.m. Monday, Oct. 14, for all students in grades 7-12. Please note that this is a change from last year, when there were varying times depending on grade level.

Support the Tigers through DHS PIE

Parents can enhance the student experience

DHS Partners in Education is a group of engaged district residents, typically parents, who share the common goal of enhancing the educational and extracurricular experiences of DHS students.

The group holds a short business meeting at 6 p.m. the second Monday of each month to:

1) Raise funds and award grants to DHS teachers for non-budgetary items. Recent examples include child man-nequins for CPR instruction, iPods for science and world language courses, scales for science courses, speakers and more.

2) Plan, fund and host the senior brunch.

3) Discuss issues of concern and often hear a report from DHS Principal Dr. Steve Heil.

4) Share experiences as high school parents.

Anyone who cannot attend the meetings but has an appreciation for the DHS PIE cause

Volunteer to make a difference

Whether you have just a few hours a year or several a month, there is no shortage of opportunities to share your skills and interests at Delano Public Schools. Volunteers are invaluable contributors to the success of our students and make a positive impact on our school and community.

Last year volunteers contributed more than 8,000 hours in a variety of roles, such as classroom helpers, site base committee members and chaperones. Not sure what role interests you? Take a look at the list below, and you can find additional information and descriptions on the Delano Schools website.
